Declare Welles' European Tour No Aid To Peace

London Asserts Tour Failed To Produce Any Promise Of Peace Proposals

ALLIED WAR COUNCIL STATEMENT DEFIANT

Asserts Allies Are Not Taking Any Initiative In Any Effort For Peace Move

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 29.—American Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles' tour of Europe failed to produce even the "flimsiest promise" of acceptable peace proposals designed to end the European war."

That was the conclusion drawn by London political circles today from the categorical announcement of the allied supreme war council that Great Britain and France will not make a separate peace and that they will "maintain after conclusion of peace a community of action in all spheres."

(Editor's Note: The communique issued after yesterday's meeting of the supreme council also stated the allies "undertake not to discuss peace terms before reaching complete agreement on the conditions necessary to insure to each of them an effective and lasting guarantee of their security."

Allies Not Talking Peace

British circles also regarded the strongly worded announcement as a clear indication to Germany, the neutrals and to the world at large that the allies will not take the initiative in any peace talks.

On the contrary—and apparently in accord with the views of the government—the British press is now urging vigorous military and diplomatic prosecution of the war.

Obvious indications that the gov-

Report On European Situation Delivered To Roosevelt By Envoy Last Night

PRESIDENT WARNS AGAINST SPECULATION

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Roosevelt today studied a comprehensive report on the odds of war or peace in Europe, compiled by his most astute diplomatic observer and based upon the direct statements of the "Big Four" in old world power politics.

But whether the president would use his newly-gained information as the basis for some dramatic move in the chaotic international game was one of the most closely-guarded secrets in the history of Washington officialdom. White House and State Department spokesmen not only refused to speculate upon the president's future course themselves, but sharply warned the press against speculation.

British To Turn Soviet Vessels Over To France

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 29.—Two Soviet steamers detained by British authoities at the Hong Kong contraband station for more than two months are being handed over to French authorities, the British ministry of economic warefare announced today.

A communique stated:

"The Soviet ships Selenga and Vladimir Mayakovsky, which were intercepted in far eastern waters and brought to Hong Kong on suspicion of carrying contraband destined for Germany, are being handed over to French authorities.

"The allied navies have always acted in close cooperation regarding contraband control. The present case is one of those in which, for administrative reasons, it is convenient to transfer the ships from custody of one ally to the other.

"Neither of these ships has been released. Examinations for the purpose of contraband control have not yet been completed."

Weather Helps To Destroy German Plane And Crew

(International News Service)

PARIS, March 29. — Snow and stormy cold weather brought destruction today to a German Dornier plane flying over northeastern France.

The plane crashed while attempting a forced landing and members of its crew were killed, according to reports received in Paris.

The weather also reduced activity of patrols and artillery batteries along the western front between the Saar River and Vosges Mountains. Along the Rhine River sector, however, French and German troops continued their "propaganda warfare."

This morning's French war communique said: "Nothing to report."

Counter Claims On Air Attack

Germans Claim Six Vessels Being Convoyed Are Damaged By Bombs

BRITISH ASSERT LITTLE DAMAGE

(International News Service)

BERLIN, March 29—Six merchant vessels were damaged, a seventh was set on fire and a patrol boat was sunk by German warplanes which bombed a British convoy near the Shetland Islands last night, the German high command announced today.

(The British admiralty contended only one German plane participated in the attack and that no damage resulted.)

Details regarding the attack were contained in the German war communique, which stated:

"There was nothing particular on the Western Front.

"The German airforce which attacked a British convoy off the Shetland Islands damaged six merchant ships, set fire to one merchantman and sank one patrol boat."

A previous announcement said the German planes also attacked a French destroyer in the English Channel.

The attack was carried out last night despite adverse weather conditions, according to the announcement, which added:

"The German battle planes dispersed the convoy, hitting several ships with bombs. All the German planes returned undamaged to their bases.

Reconnoitering continued throughout the day over the North Sea, Britain and France, yielding valuable results despite strong defensive action. Two reconnoitering planes failed to return to their home bases."

(Editor's Note: The British admiralty in London issued a communique which, in effect, denied the German claims. The British announcement stated: "One enemy aircraft attacked a British convoy in the North Sea last night. It dropped five bombs but caused no damage.")

Pioneer Week Interest Centers On Court House

Today in the schedule of Pioneer Week is given the title of County Day, a day when the people of Lawrence county pay some attention to their county government. No better time could be found than the present to inspect the county buildings for they have never been in such good shape since the days of their erection.

The main body of the court house has been improved from cellar to belfry, offices have been painted, new equipment added, a wing built to the building to provide much needed space, the Boyles property has been purchased and made into a modern office building and all of the improvements have been made at a most reasonable cost. The entire bill will not reach $100,000.

Organized In 1849

Lawrence county was organized in 1849 and the first sessions of court were held in the Methodist Episcopal church, now St. Joseph's church on South Jefferson street. In 1851 the present court house was started and courts held there in July 1852.

The first judge of the county was Judge John Bredin who died after serving a short time after he first held court here and Judge Daniel

Congress Will Seek To Delay Tax Boost Action Until After Fall Election

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Having dethroned "king economy," Congress today appeared bent on postponing both a boost in taxation and an increase in the $45.000,000,000 debt limit until after the November presidential election.

"Of course Congress is not going to pass a tax bill or lift the debt limit," said one of the most prominent leaders in Congress. "The question will be met next session."

Sen. Russell (D.), Ga., a leader in the successful Senate fight to smash the budget on farm appropriations, agreed.

"I don't think Congress will do anything about the debt limit or taxes this session, but there will have to be a general fiscal reorganization when Congress meets next year," Russell said.

Economy Program Ditched

The policy of economy, which the House had consistently followed this year, was tossed overboard yesterday when it passed the $1,021,000,000 labor-social security bill.

Despite warnings of national bankruptcy, the House voted, 204 to 170, to add $50,000,000 for the civilian conservation corps, and 221 to 157, to add $17,450,000 for the national youth administration.

Thus, in two strokes—the Senate's action in adding $212,000,000 to

Dewey Continues New Deal Attack

CORRUPTION CHARGES ARE MADE IN SPEECH

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 29.—Moving into Wisconsin, where he faces a vote test next Tuesday, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York today continued a gloves-off denunciation of the New Deal unequalled for vigor in recent political history.

In the second of three set speeches for his midwest tour, Dewey last night charged widespread corruption in the WPA and laid special emphasis on corruption which he claimed permeates Illinois politics. Tremendous applause shook the Chicago stadium when Dewey declared.

"At present your New Deal Kelly-Nash machine is running a close race with our own (New York) Mangy Tiger in Tammany Hall to see which is the lowest form of animal life."

Broken Covenants

His reference was to the political organization dominated by Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and National Democratic Committeeman Patrick A. Nash, targets of both Republicans and "rebel" Democratic forces in the current state primary election campaign.

Dewey accused the New Deal of "broken covenants, disloyalty to the constitution, abuse of power, intimidation, coercion, extortion and larceny—all committed against the underprivileged and helpless unemployed." He said it now has a "vested interest in human misery."

A crowd estimated at more than 20,000 heard Dewey's Chicago speech, which followed up his charges of "dishonesty" in the New Deal at St. Louis Wednesday. Early today, he left for stops at twenty or more towns in Wisconsin, where he faces the most important test of his presidential bid so far.

CONGRESS WILL SEEK TO DELAY TAX BOOST ACTION

the farm bill for parity payments and $85,000,000 for surplus crop disposal, and the House additions on the labor-social security bill—Congress virtually wiped out savings under the budget made in passage of prior appropriation bills.

To Boost Relief

Having upset "economy bloc" leaders in the House for the first time this session, the "free spending" forces mapped plans to boost President Roosevelt's relief recommendations by $500,000,000.

This battle opens next week when Works Projects Administrator (WPA) Francis C. Harrington goes before a House appropriations subcommittee to ask for approximately $1,000,000,000 — a reduction which would necessitate removal of several hundred thousand persons from the rolls in the next fiscal year.

"We ought to have the same for relief as we had this year," said Rep. Johnson (D.), Okla., a leader in the fight for bigger appropriations. "There are worse things than taxes."

Rep. Tabor of New York, Republican leader on the House appropriations committee, charged the economy breakdown to the President.

"Unless the President has courage to veto some of these bills we will have to have new taxes, raise the debt limit or go into inflation before June 30, 1941," he said. "The President could stop this spending spree, but I don't think he has the courage to do it."

One hope remained for economy forces as sentiment rose in the Senate to slash military appropriations to make up for the increase in relief and farm outlays.

WELLES' REPORT BEING STUDIED BY PRESIDENT

during a conference with Welles and Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Welles' observations were based upon a month-long tour of Europe, during which he talked intimately with Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, the then Premier Edouard Daladier of France, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain and Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy. Thus his information came —in sports idiom—out of "the horse's mouth."

It was thought likely that the Roosevelt-Welles conversation would be continued today or tomorrow, although Welles said that no definite appointment at the White House had yet been scheduled.

Before Sunday the president is expected to leave for Warm Spring, Ga., to recuperate from a tenacious cold. Welles may be asked to accompany him there.

RESULT OF CANADA'S ELECTION

THE result of the Canadian election means, of course, that the majority of the people are not only unwilling to trade horses in the middle of the dangerous stream, but are fully satisfied with the Liberal government's conduct of the war to date.

Great as is Prime Minister Mackenzie King's triumph, its significance extends beyond his personal political fortunes. Prime Minister Chamberlain thus far has successfully resisted demands for a coalition British government, representing all parties, although some remaking of his cabinet is indicated. Now Mackenzie King's victory has silenced a similar cry.

Although forecasts had given his government a majority in the new parliament, such a landslide was not expected. The new five-year lease of life for the Liberal government should make for national unity, so imperative in time of war.

The return of every member of the present cabinet and the defeat of Dr. Manion, leader of the Opposition, and many of his lieutenants who now lose their seats, indicate the completeness of the Conservative rout. With the clearing of the political atmosphere, Mackenzie King may now feel that he has the confidence of the people and a definite mandate to carry out the government's war policies on the lines he has already laid down.

SHORT CROP THEORY

Coincident with the passage of the billion dollar farm appropriation bill by the senate to continue at full speed all of the various activities of the AAA, it is interesting to note that this country has never accepted fully the theory of short crops at high prices. A great many Americans still resist the theory that by getting payments for shortening crops, the farmer may be brought to a "parity" with industry.

In a discussion by the National Industrial Conference Board about which brings the farmer more money—big crops at low prices or reduced crops at high prices, charts kept on wheat over a period of sixty years show that in two years out of three farm income goes up with production and vice versa. The same is true of cotton and tobacco.

The only thing favoring the short crop theory at this particular time is the sad state of foreign trade. If surpluses cannot be shipped out of the country, they pile up. But even so the United States is not convinced that it is permanently condemned to the short crop theory. It is something the American is swallowing but is having a terrible time digesting.

HOW THE TRADE PACTS HIT PENNSYLVANIA

The State Department recently issued a bulletin entitled "Benefits to Pennsylvania from Reciprocal Trade Agreements," an encouraging fact if true. Senator Davis asked for an opinion from Harrisburg and it has now been furnished by Richard P. Brown, secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce.

Mr. Brown says Secreaary Hull's department has presented only one side of the picture. It emphasizes the increase in exports, but doesn't tell how many of our workers in factories and mines were thrown out of their jobs by the influx of goods from abroad produced by cheap foreign labor.

The State Department's glowing bulletin failed to explain that the trade agreements do not limit imports to non-competitive products and raw materials. Certain Pennsylvania industries may have been enabled to increase their exports, but Mr. Brown asks how about those other industries which have so severely felt the pinch of foreign competition.

Among these Pennsylvania industries are steel, textiles and cement. In the first few months after the agreement with Great Britain took effect, imports of woolen fabrics nearly tripled. The making of these textiles would have re-employed 5500 idle workers.

There are certainly two sides to the reciprocal trade agreement picture, and the side turned toward Pennsylvania is painted in exceedingly dark colors.

SPOTS ON THE SUN

Why the solar tempests, which are visible as spots on the photosphere, should create such disturbances in the earth's magnetic field as occurred on Easter is a matter more of theory than of precise knowledge on the part of the scientists. Why such storms should occur at all is a mystery, but the connection between them and the magnetic disturbances, as well as with displays of aurora, is considered well established.

A generally accepted theory is that streams of electrical impulses from the sun cross the earth's magnetic field 50 to 240 miles above the earth at right angles, disrupting the normally serene flow between the magnetic poles. The collision sets up a luminous glow visible at night as the aurora-borealis in the North and australis in the South. Radio impulses caught in the cross-flow are broken and scattered or stopped altogether, while the currents that carry messages by wire are either lured away or so intensified that they cease to function.

Sunspots, and the attendant magnetic disturbances, wax and wane within cycles of approximately 11 years, one of which was presumed to have passed its peak 12 to 18 months ago. Whereas on the basis of that reckoning, the sun should now show fewer and fewer spots, for the last few months it has been more disturbed than ever. What the reason is nobody knows, though one might guess the grouping of the planets in February had something to do with it.

Since observers have linked sunspots to abnormal weather, it is natural to conclude that the extraordinary performances of the winter, to say nothing of the recent phenomenal cold spell, have been due to the unusual solar activity.

Some folk have gone so far as to express the conviction that human beings, respondent to the subtle forces set free by the sun's tantrums, become more belligerent and that more wars occur when the spots are rampant than otherwise. Why not blame the spots? They can take it.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

GIVING BABY SUITABLE NAME

THE GIVEN name for persons dates from the very beginning of language, but down to the time of Christ there were no surnames. We read of the Son of Joseph, Jesus of Nazareth, of the House of David.

Surnames were first taken on by nobles; the common people later imitated the nobles. Even as late as 1465 surnames were not common. At that time King James V, of England, had a law passed to compel certain Irish outlaws to take surnames. "They shall take unto them a surname, either of some Towne, or some Colour as Black or Brown, or some Art or Science, as Smyth or Carpenter, or some office as Cooke or Butler." To this day there are no surnames in some remote parts of Ireland.

Consider Its Sound

In choosing a name for your child, it is well to consider how it will sound with the family name. If the family name is a short one, you would not choose a long first name. Nor would you want the first and last name to sound much alike, as Bertha Murtha. It is also well to choose a name that cannot easily be turned to an undesirable nickname.

Middle names should be chosen in like fashion. Some omit the middle name but there is considerable argument for it in serving to identify the person. A few parents let the child choose his own middle name when he grows old enough to do so.

And why should not children who strongly dislike their given names have them changed? It can easily be done by making a trip to the county court house. Not to have such change legally recorded might cause the child in later years no end of embarassment and trouble.

"Junior" An Affliction

Let me advise against Junior for the boy. My first boy escaped it but the second didn't alas! It is an affliction. For a long while he was called "Little Garry," which greatly vexed him. A farmer boy, trying honestly one summer to make the distinction, referred to the two of us as Young Garry and Old Garry. But this was not the worst. I have, by mistake, opened his mail. To a high school youth this is a serious offense. But I am glad to report that for almost a year now I have a clear record, being more careful than I would have to be if he had another first name.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Should parents be so much concerned about good manners in their children?

A. Yes; but they should find ways of training their children in good manners without eternally nagging at them. An occasional quiet suggestion in a tone of gentleness and love, aided and abetted by good example, seems to bring best results.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

LEGION RIDES AGAIN

One of the strangest adventure dramas in military history is revealed by the current lifting of the British-French veil of secrecy on the Allied army now massed in the Near East. Army of Mystery, its own leaders call it—for it may fight Germans, or Russians or possibly Italians, if war spreads southward. And it may not fight at all, if that sector remains silent.

Never has an army of nearly a million men been so conglomerate—including Moraccans, Syrians, Bedouins, Algerians, Tunesians, Senegalese, Arabs, Turks, along with French and English regulars. There are modern tanks and trucks—and camels; olive-drab uniforms—and desert costumes identical with those worn in the Middle Ages by the soldiers of Saracen when they fought the Crusaders; soldiers drilled into a smooth-working force by General Weygand, the "French fox"—but speaking scores of languages and dialects representing scores of nationalities and creeds.

Yet correspondents note the paradox that the strangest unit of all is the only one that seems to fit naturally into the bizarre setting—the French Foreign Legion. Perhaps that is because the Foreign Legion is of itself the most incredible fighting organization in existence. It is the last refuge of desperate men of fugitives, of born adventurers; of men of all nations who wish to bury their identities and are contemptuous of death. They confide neither in their officers nor in each other: no questions are asked and no infomation volunteered. Even the circumstance that no one is sure when, or against whom, the Army of Mystery may fight, is matter-of-fact to the Foreign Legionnaires. They have but one thing in common—loyalty to the colors. Over hot sands in far places, indifferent as always to the causes, the enemy and the dangers, the Legion rides again. Together, the silent men form a deadly military force; individually, each is as alone and solitary, among his very company comrades, as he will be when his fierce days end and they pause to dig him an unmarked grave.

Here, in a world where even war is systematized and streamlined still exists sheer masculine adventure—hard, somehow tragic, and yet incredibly credibly romantic.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: I am invited to a house-warming and I have never been to one. Should I bring a gift and spend the night; and must I wear evening clothes? What is usually the entertainment at such a function?—Louise.

Answer: You should bring to the house-warming a gift for the new home—one in accordance with your own desires and the extent of your friendship with the host and hostess. Whether or not you should wear evening clothes depends upon whether the party is to be formal or informal. You should inquire of your hostess whether you should "dress."

Forms of entertainment at such functions vary, just as they do at any other, for a house-warming is simply a party. And there may be dancing, cards, other games or, in fact, any entertainment which the hostess may plan.

You should not prepare to spend the night, unless definitely invited to do so.

Salaries Of Diplomats Discussed
Believe More Money Should Be Paid
Cromwell Affair Brings Up Subject

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON March 29.

THE "CROMWELL incident" in Toronto is mentioned in official Washington as just another proof that Uncle Sam's diplomatic service urgently needs to be placed upon something like a civil service basis—and at a much better rate of pay, so far as important posts are concerned, then is the rule at present.

The "Cromwell affair" has been widely advertised. To recapitulate briefly:

James H. R. Cromwell, our minister to Canada for only a few weeks past, recently made a speech in Toronto in the course of which he said, in effect, that American public sentiment is everwhelmingly pro-Anglo-French and anti-German.

State Secretary Hull reprimanded him for this talk.

It generally is agreed that Minister Cromwell told the truth. He wasn't reprimanded on the ground that he spoke inaccurately. The complaint was that, as our official representative, he wasn't entitled to speak at all on such a subject, without his home government's permission.

If an American private citizen had made the same speech under the same circumstances not a bit of fault would have been found with him.

The trouble with Minister Cromwell was that, because of his diplomatic status, he gave the impression that he was expressing Uncle Sam's governmental views, and Secretary Hull thinks this was an indiscretion.

Furthermore, the state department's permament officialdom remarks that many of our diplomats talk, on their foreign jobs, rather embarrassingly to Washington, through the Cromwell case was a somewhat conspicuous instance of it.

Diplomats And Diplomats

Other countries' diplomats are well-trained professionals. They understand what it's proper for them to say and what it's improper for them to say, as long as they remain in the diplomatic business.

Some of our diplomats are well-trained, too. They're known as "career diplomats." That is to say, diplomacy is their trade. They go into it for life—or until they retire. They're as much public servants as are mail carriers.

But a mail carrier is adequately paid. His income isn't large, to be sure, but his expenses aren't high, either. He can live on his salary. The average American diplomat can't live on his. There are a few posts, at small capitals, in out-of-the-way countries (as in the Central Americas and the Near East) where our ministers' stipends will support them in good style. On the more important jobs, however, our ministers and ambassadors must maintain a style and do a line of entertaining that their pay is altogether insufficient to cover. Oh, it sounds all right (up in the 'steen thousands per annum), but it won't anywhere nearly meet unavoidable expenses.

The result is that our competent "career diplomats" have to content themselves with the minor positions above referred to; they can't afford to accept the big ones.

There's an occasional exception—a "career diplomat" who's rich in his own right. State Undersecretary Sumner Welles is one of them. He's a "career man" and a good one, but it happens that he has plenty of money of his own, so whenever he's assigned to an important place he can finance it.

In general, though, if a vacancy exists in a tip-top legation or embassy, a plutocrat has to be named to fill it—to supplement his salary out of his personal pocket.

Don't Know The Game

These chaps usually are wholly unfamiliar with the diplomatic game. They may be smart men in business, but they're not diplomatically smart.

It frequently is asserted that they're picked because they've made handsome campaign contributions to whatever party appoints them. Possibly this is true now and then, but they have to be rich anyway. And they almost invariably are as ignorant of diplomatic usage or propriety as a share-cropper.

That's why we're so consistently out-diplomatized.

Our "career men" are o. k. Our amateurs cause the state department plenty of anxiety.

A story's current to the effect that Minister Cromwell said what he did intentionally—to get himself advertised as a candidate for the senate from New Jersey. Well, he got the advertising all right, whether favorably or not is problematic.

Our consular service is first rate. That consist wholly of "career men."

The Great Game Of Politics

It Seems Hardly Human

Washington, March 29.

THERE might be more sympathy for Mr. Paul V. McNutt, the Indiana hero, whose friends contend that he is being "slowly assassinated" by an inspired Internal Revenue Department investigation of his financial affairs, if he did not persist in publicly licking the boots of those who are so cruelly kicking him.

IN other words, Mr. McNutt is taking it "lying down." And it isn't easy to warm to a man, however innocent, who, wincing from his wounds greasily praises those who inflict them. The fact is that with the ordinary citizen the extent of his indignation would be an accurate measure of his innocence. The more complete the absence of guilt the hotter the righteous wrath. That is the rule. Perhaps it is politics, perhaps it is his lovely and forgiving nature, but certainly Mr. McNutt's reactions are not those usual under such circumstances.

THIS is not to intimate that Mr. McNutt is remotely guilty of wrongdoing. On the contrary, there is every reason to believe he is not. It is merely to point out that few men in his position could continue to smile so sweetly upon the people who are sticking the knife into him and turning it around. Hit patient sufferings-are almost without parallel; his meekness beyond belief. For months without a word of reproach he has watched the New Dealers with whom he is affiliated in Washington and with whom he professes to see eye to eye politically, sabotage his expensively constructed Presidential candidacy and smear his personal reputation.

THE Treasury investigation of his income, of course, is the most shocking thing done to him, but it is by no means all. Almost from the day the President brought him to Washington the Roosevelt aides have hacked at his candidacy until it began to crumble. New Deal journalists who reflect the "inner circle" vituperatively assaulted him. The "inner circlers" themselves disputed the genuineness of his New Dealism and spread disparaging little stories about him. When his managers, in an excess of zeal, overplayed their hand, Mr. Roosevelt practically

THE GOLFING PARSON RETURNS

He's back: I saw him yesterday,
Once more in garments slack.
His solemn books are put away,
The golfing parson's back!
Let others cheer the Ladies' Aid
Let others lead the prayers,
The golfing parson's hand is laid
To bitterer affairs.

He's back: I saw him yesterday
Upon the starting tee,
Robed in a sweater worn and gray;
And from his collar free
Now from the sins of erring men
Who miss the narrow way
The golfing parson comes again
Himself to go astray.

He's back! Again the sun is high,
Once more the robins sing.
Again upon the course we spy
The parson's mighty swing.
Let others hearken to the woes
Which troubled lives have known,
The golfing parson's back and knows
Some troubles of his own.

He's back! and soon he'll shake his head
And tell at close of day
How difficult it is to tread
The straight and narrow way.
For when his weaknesses return
And all his faults recur,
Then will the parson truly learn
How human 'tis to err.

FIGHTING INFECTION

I think the way the white blood cells respond and come rushing in when infection attacks the system, as described here yesterday, is one of the most interesting stories of nature's workings that could be told any child.

I am sure most of you at some time or another had a slight infection in a finger or a toe. You just let the thing alone and in a few days the trouble was all cleared up. Well, that was due to the white blood cells. They came rushing out of the marrow of your bones, rushed through the blood stream to the spot affected, the wiggled through the walls of the blood vessels, went to the bacteria which was causing the trouble and destroyed it.

If the infection is slight, it will be defeated in short order and after a few hours, or days, the foot or hand will return to normal. As the infection is gradually overcome, the white cells return to the marrow of the bones and the blood too becomes normal.

If the infection is severe, the fight may go on for long periods. The foot may be sore and painful and swollen for many days, and the patient's temperature will go up until the infection is conquered. Eventually the appearance of the foot may change and the swelling may become soft and white in color. When this occurs, it means that the white cells have become so numerous that they have broken down into pus and the sooner this pus is drained off the better. Such cases usually clear up when this is done.

Occasionally the infection is so severe as to break down the body resistance at this point and the infection may become generalized. Before this occurs, the lymph glands which we have spoken of before, must also be defeated. This is always preceded by a swelling of the glands in the groin, so we nearly always have some warning that a catastrophe is on the way.

Nature has certainly equipped our bodies first to resist infection, then to fight it. We have the equipment for this work of defense, but it is up to us to see that our equipment is always in good shape for a fight. So one of the first things to do is to see that we have an adequate diet. I don't refer to amounts of food, but rather to the vitamins we get. We should have a balanced diet, for if we haven't, if we suffer from a deficiency of one vitamin or another because we don't eat the right kind of food, then some part of our defense equipment will be weakened.

In my experience I have seen the human body put up some terrific fights against infection and disease. I have also seen other times when a person would succumb with scarcely a struggle. When this happens it is because our defenses have become so weakened that we are unable to put up a fight.

So, when you are being careful to give your child the right kind of food, and the right amount of rest and sleep, you are building up his system to resist the diseases and infections he will meet with right up to the day he dies.

The Great Game Of Politics

pulled the plug on Mt. McNutt by laughing over his discomfiture at a press conference.

BUT, even before the sniping became pronounced, the "Treasury investigation" in Indiana was under way. Supposed to be secret, every newspaper reader in the country knows now that the Treasury is "investigating" Mr. McNutt. Although it has been going on for seven months, although nothing whatever has been found to discredit Mr. McNutt, although long ago he voluntarily turned over his safe-deposit keys and private records—still the "investigation" continues. The Treasury agents will neither conclude their work nor give him a clean bill of health.

HIS friends contend that this is a form of calculated political murder inspired by some one "higher up." Unquestionably both these allegations are true. It is interesting to note that they were also true in the case of the late Mr. Mellon, who was pilloried as a tax evader, prosecuted by the then Assistant Attorney General, Mr. Jackson, held up by the New Deal propagandists as a horrible example, only to be completely vindicated after his death. It is a lasting shame to the Administration that in that case no word of apology or regret was ever uttered.

THAT Mr. McNutt should supinely submit to what is being done to him is really extraordinary. He knows, of course, that someone in the Administration has inspired the "investigation." The investigators would long ago have wound up their work if it were a normal investigation. All the commentators are agreed about that. The natural question would seem to be who is this "higher up." It, of course, is not Mr. Morgenthau. Mr. Morgenthau, on his own initiative, would never dream of such a thing. It couldn't be Mr. Roosevelt. That would entail a degree of duplicity and depravity in which few would believe.

BUT, if not Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Morgenthau, who then? It must be someone high enough up to have a good deal of influence and no one has that kind of influence who is not linked in with the so-called inner circle. It may be absurd to think Mr. Roosevelt has directed this himself, but it is not quite as absurd to think that he knows who is doing it, and not absurd at all to contend that, if he does not know, he could find out and stop it.

IT would seem natural, after months of this slow torture, for Mr. McNutt to go to his friend, the President, explain what is being done, denounce those who are doing it and insist upon its being stopped. It would seem natural for a President to be indignant at such abuse of Administration power and visit his displeasure upon those responsible. Neither of these things has happened, and the "investigation" continues devastatingly for Mr. McNutt, but filling the inner circle with delight. That the President is aware of the facts is certain. There has been far too wide publication of them for him to be in ignorance.

WHEN the whole business is considered it does seem that Mr. McNutt, the New Dealer, is getting an exceedingly raw deal from the New Dealers. But what does he do about it? Bleeding from every pore, he continues to dish out fulsome praise of the New Deal, attribute to it all the known virtues; servilely declare that he is only an "if Roosevelt does not run" candidate. It seems hardly human. Until he himself exhibits some natural resentment at his treatment by the Administration he lauds, he can scarcely expect others to resent it.

Help Promote Safety — Dim Your Lights When Passing.

IN OTHER, blunter words, why be satisfied to trail?

Why buy a car that's content to follow along—when little, if any, more money will put you in a Buick up where the banners are flying?

For as five minutes on any busy street corner will show you, this year's automotive style pattern was cut by Buick a good twelve months ago.

This year's performance tempo was set two years back when the Buick Dynaflash engine appeared.

And this year's comfort standards still have some catching up to do to equal Buick's combination of four coil springs, recoil-mounted Knee-Action, the SUPER's five-foot front seat room and Foamtex cushions.

Eventually, perhaps, others may find a way to micropoise-balance engines after assembly in search of Buick's present silky smoothness. They may get around to making Two-Way Direction Signals standard equipment instead of extras; they may heavy-up their frames, and generally seek to equal Buick's staunchness.

Meantime you'll have those Buick blessings to enjoy.

You'll step out front at the touch of an eager treadle, swing through the gear changes with light-and-easy finger-flicking, pilot a joyous traveler that's equally ready for work or play, and does everything with ease matched only by its smartness.

You'll drive the style-leader, the comfort-leader, the value-leader—a car full of things that will still be "new" a good two years from now.

And as a visit to your Buick dealer will show, you'll get it at prices like those you find on the sixes.

That gives you something real to look into. Start looking early — to get in on all the fun.

Prices begin at $895 for Business Coupe — Sedan prices start at $955 — *delivered at Flint, Mich. Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

West Siders To Gather In April

Former pupils of the West Side school will have their spring indoor picnic and reunion on Wednesday evening, April 10, instead of Tuesday evening, April 16, as was announced previously, President Hugh D. Horton, announces.

The committee is now busy perfecting arrangements for the gathering and the usual good time is anticipated.

Move Production Room Of Red Cross

New Quarters Found Necessary As Rooms Formerly Occupied Are Leased

Because of the fact that the rooms in the Woods building on East Washington street, which had been occupied as a production center during the past two months, have been rented, it has been necessary for the Red Cross to secure new production rooms.

Mrs. James Rhodes, production chairman, and Mrs. Robert Garland, chairman of knitting, will have quarters in the chapter house for receiving finished garments and going out materials.

Comforts will be made by the Finnish women in their church rooms while Mrs. John Wajert will continue the auxiliary meetings in the Polish Falcons and K. Pulaski halls.

Mrs. Garland will have the knitting carried on as in the past and will be at the Chapter House to give help and material when needed.

The demands for warm clothing of all types and comforts are still being received and the chapter will continue their production program as long as there is this urgent demand.

Mrs. Garland has had calls for children's sweaters and it is urgent more women ask for yarn and make as many garments as possible, it is stated. Warm winters are not to be expected in Poland and Finland. The climate is such warm clothing will always be used.

All women desiring information may call the chapter house 5084.

Seventy-Seven On Old-Age Rolls Here Since First Of Year

During the first two months of 1940, 77 persons, ranging in ages between 65 and 69, were transferred from general assistance rolls to old-age assistance rolls in Lawrence county, J. W. Moorehead, executive director of the Lawrence County Board of Assistance, reported today.

This came about under the provision of state law, effective January 1, which reduced the minimum age for old-age asistance from 70 to 65 years.

Transfers for January and February alone, Mr. Moorehead said, have made possible a net saving in state relief funds currently calculated at about $392.00 a month, or at a rate of $2,704.00 a year. This saving arises from the fact that general assistance is financed entirely by the state, whereas old-age assistance costs are split 50-50 between the state and federal governments.

In addition to the 77 persons transferred from general assistance, five needy individuals, between the ages of 65-69, not previously receiving relief, were added to old-age assistance rolls during the two-month period.

"The finding that the overwhelming majority of persons who received initial old-age grants in January and February came from general assistance rolls, is in line with expectations," Mr. Moorehead stated.

"Since old-age assistance can be granted only to those who lack income or resources themselves and who have no responsible relatives able to support them, it is not surprising that so many of the eligible applicants are already being helped by the assistance board."

"It should be noted, however, that we are able to grant slightly more aid to these transferred individuals than formerly, due to the fact that assistance budgets for old-age assistance recipients and for families including such recipients are somewhat higher than the budgets applicable to general assistance.

"Although this means larger average grants and increased total costs, the 50 per cent federal contribution more than offsets this and results in an appreciably smaller state expenditure for the persons affected," Moorehead concluded.

Additional transfers are being made this month.

Young Roosevelt Fined As Speeder

(International News Service)

WILMINGTON, Del., March 29—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the president, left $13.50 fine and costs here today after pleading guilty to charges of speeding on Glasgow road enroute to New York.

Young Roosevelt was picked up by Private William Leach and taken before Magistrate William B. Davis, of Newcastle.

"There is just no excuse for it, but I was in a hurry for an appointment in New York and did not realize the speed," Davis quoted him as saying.

Rev. Walter Dworecki, 49, Polish Evangelist, Dies For Murder Plot

(International News Service)

TRENTON, N. J., March 29—A grave beside that of his daughter, Wanda, 18, for whose murder he was executed last night in the electric chair, today awaited the body of the Rev. Walter Dworecki, 49, a Polish evangelist.

Babson Discusses Problem Created In U. S. By Married Women Holding Many Jobs

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1940, Publishers Financial Bureau)

BABSON PARK, Fla., March 29.—The biggest research job ever undertaken by any nation in any age begins on Monday when the 1940 census starts. Each decade this vast nose-counting project gets bigger, the blanks longer, the questions more personal. However, as long as people want to turn to Uncle Sam for help when they are in trouble they must expect to furnish the information which the government needs in order to provide such help.

BABSON

Notwithstanding all the hullabaloo about "your income", most anxiously awaited reply will be to the question, "Are you employed?". I fear the nation will be shocked when the answers to this query are added, tabulated, published. However, it will be impossible to compare this figure with any previous totals. Our national ideas on unemployment have changed drastically in the past ten years. We went "unemployment-conscious" during the 30's. Ten years ago a jobless family of four was content to consider that one person—usually the father—was unemployed. Today, that family would report there are four out of work.

Millions of Working Wives

During the last decade, business has been unable to absorb the trek of women into industry and find new jobs for the displaced males. It is estimated that there are three to four million married women holding jobs. Of course, in many cases these wives are the sole support of their own family, of their aged parents or of some other family. My hat is off to any wife with guts enough to support the family if her husband cannot or will not do so. But many people believe something must be done about those cases where both husband and wife are holding down good jobs.

Under normal conditions I would feel that nothing need be done legislatively about the problem of working wives and husbands. Today's conditions, however, are not normal. There are millions of men out of work, the government is supporting upwards of twenty million people, federal expenses have soared to an all-time peak. At least one-quarter of this money goes directly for relief and another 25 per cent for recovery "aids". In addition, nearly every town and city runs Community Chests.

Adding To Tax Burden

Yet, from one end of the country to the other there are glaring examples of wives holding down good jobs while their husbands are doing likewise. These cases cover public jobs as well as private employment. So long as we have to hand over one-quarter of our income every year to meet government bills (which have been pushed up to record high to support the jobless) then some type of formal action to stop this practice is bound to come.

A storm of controversy has raged around this subject for years. Protectors of the home have thumped the tub against working wives on the basis that the place for the wife is in the home. They insist that if we wish to continue with our present system of the family as the unit of society, we must confine the wife to her real role of mother and homemaker. I think a lot of words are wasted in arguing along this line. If the family as the unit of society is going out the window, then we can not stem the tide simply by putting a new law on the books. Only a spiritual family awakening will solve the problem properly.

Real Objections Are Economic

My only objection to married women working is based on cold economic grounds. Working wives take many part-time jobs, they work at lower pay scales than single women, they create a surplus of labor, they fill jobs that unemployed men could handle. The tide of resentment against the practice is rising steadily throughout the nation. I understand that two state legislatures have already adopted laws designed to force married women out of industry. Twenty-eight other legislatures have considered the subject.

Yet if legislation is to be adopted, I hope it will be practical, sensible, not too restrictive. There are hundreds and hundreds of cases that must be made exempt—cases where the wife must help support her own family, an unemployed brother's family, an aged mother or father. If any legislation is adopted, it should not automatically purge married women from industry. It should merely prohibit both husband and wife from holding certain types of jobs, especially government jobs. In many a family the wife makes a far better bread-winner than the husband. If the wife has the business ability, then why shouldn't she hold the family job while the husband stays at home and changes the baby's diapers?

Should Recognize Trend

Working wives can make out a splendid case for themselves. Yet I believe they would be smarter if they recognized this rising tide of national resentment against both husbands and wives working where there is no need for both to work. They would do far better to resign their jobs now and prevent restrictive legislation — legislation which may take years to repeal. We already have too many regulations shackling employers and employes. But if wives insist on working when their husbands have good jobs, then they must face the day of reckoning.

Directors Meet Thursday Night

Chamber Of Commerce Official Take Action On Number Of Matters For City Advancement

The Board of Directors of the Ellwood City Chamber of Commerce met in the chamber rooms with A. E Connor, second vice-president presiding in the absence of President J. A. Evans.

With State Highway officials seeing the needs of the Koppel Bridge being freed from toll, the Board unanimously adopted a resolution to work vigorously on the project to thoroughly convince the State that the bridge should be taken over by them.

The Beaver County approach to the bridge is in a most deplorable condition and a great many protests have been filed to the Chamber Good Roads Committee who in turn referred them to A. B. Long, Beaver County Highway Superintendent.

The Board has completed arrangements to have the Burch Directory Company of Akron, Ohio, edit a new City Directory for the community. The last directory was compiled in 1937 and is somewhat obsolete at the present time.

All-American Aviation, Incorporated, operators of the Air Mail Pick-Up which is scheduled to operate here in Ellwood City around June 1st, are expected to make a survey of the town in the near future for a suitable location and the Chamber Board placed the project in the hands of Air Mail Committee of which Thomas Wilson, Postmaster, is Chairman.

Edward Mackasek and David Jones, co-chairman of the Industrial Committee reported that recent surveys show that Ellwood City has the best employment per capita of any town in the state. Industrial expansion in the community in the past year has also been the greatest of any community our size in the state of Pennsylvania. This survey shows that Ellwood City is in far better condition than most citizens of the community realize.

The Board instructed Secretary R. J. Schill to investigate the methods used in Community Chest drives in other cities and report same to the next Directors meeting which is to be held on the last Thursday in June.

If you travel at 30 miles an hour and get 15 miles to a gallon of gasoline, the taxes on the gasoline amount to about 11 cents an hour, according to experts.

You can vary the flavor of mayonnaise by using lime juice instead of lemon or vinegar. This is particularly delicious with a fish salad.

Traffic Death Toll Shown On Increase

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 29.—A. U. S. traffic death toll of 2,170, representing an increase of 10 per cent over the same month last year and the sharpest monthly increase in three years, was announced for February today by the national safety council.

The council traced most of the increase to the nine largest states. Seven of which reported gains of 11 per cent or more in fatal traffic accidents. It was the fifth consecutive month of increase, and meant 700 additional lives lost in the 5-month period.

For the first two months of this year, the average gain was 5 per cent, or 250 additional lives lost as compared with the same period of 1939. A more open winter and a gain averaging around 6 per cent in mileage driven only partly accounts for the death increase, the council stated.

By sections, the North Atlantic States showed an increase of 11 per cent, the South Atlantic States a decrease of 14 per cent, the North Central, Mountain and Pacific States gains of 6, 18 and 2 per cent respectively, and the South Central States a decline of 1 per cent in February deaths.

St. Louis, despite a slight increase, continued to hold first place in safety among the largest cities, with an accident death rate of 8.7. Cleveland was second with a rate of 9.1, and New York third with a rate of 10.7 (per 100,000 population).

Among cities of 250,000 to 500,000 population, Providence, R. I., Kansas City, Mo., and Memphis had the best February reports, with accident death rates of 4.7, 5.8, and 6.9 respectively.

Two hundred and twenty-five cities of less than 250,000 had no accident deaths in February, the largest of these being Evansville, Ind., Lynn, Mass., and Duluth, Minn.

The Continuing Task

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 31 is Matthew 28:16-20, the Golden Text being Acts 1:8, "Ye shall be my witnesses . . . unto the uttermost part of the earth.")

IT IS conceded that there were ten times in all in which our Lord appeared to his disciples after His resurrection, from the first one early Easter morning at the tomb where He appeared to the Marys, until the time He was taken up to heaven forty days later.

John tells us that the same evening of the day He had been seen of Mary Magdalene, He appeared to His eleven apostles, as they were gathered together with closed doors, for fear of the Jews. In an instant Jesus stood in their midst, saying, "Peace be unto you." And He showed them His hands and side. "Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord," says John.

One of them, however, Thomas, was not present at this time and he refused to believe when told. "We have seen the Lord." "Except I shall see in His hands the prints of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe," he stated. After eight days the disciples were again gathered together and Thomas was with them, and Jesus stood again in their midst and told Thomas to reach thither his finger and "behold my hands, and reach thither thy hand, and thrust it ito My side, and be not faithless, but believing."

Thomas Is Reproved

Thomas answer was, "My Lord and my God!" Jesus said: "Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed, blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed."

In John we also find the story of the apostles' fishing trip, when Jesus appeared on the beach. Simon Peter had said he was going fishing, and four others said they would go with him. They went in a ship and fished all night but caught nothing. When the morning came, Jesus stood on the beach, but the disciples knew Him not. He called to them, "Children, have ye any meat?" and they answered no.

Then He told them where to cast their net, and when they did as He said, it was so heavy they could not draw it to land. One said to Peter, "It is the Lord." When Peter heard that he cast himself into the sea to swim to shore and the others dragged the net in. When they came to land they found a fire going on the sand and bread and fish spread out, and Jesus called them to "come and dine."

The last recorded time Jesus came to His disciples as they were gathered in a room with closed doors, He said to them: "All authority hath been given unto Me in heaven and on earth.

"Go ye, therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit.

"Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you, and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

St. Mark says, "So then after the Lord has spoken unto them, He was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God."

And of the disciples he says: "And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with him and confirming the word with signs following."

That is the work millions of followers of these disciples have been engaged in all these years since that time. Missionaries have gone to far countries trying to save those who never before had heard of Christianity. David Livingstone was one of these. His work in Africa is well known, and has been called to the attention of the people of this generation recently by a motion picture which showed him in that once so-called "dark continent." His labors ended when he died of fever contracted in the jungles and swamps of that continent. Such men have found, truly, that Christ has been with them in their labors and has helped them.

George Mudehart Taken By Death

George Mudehart, who was a former administrator of the Works Progress Administration for District 10, comprising Lawrence, Beaver, Butler and Mercer Counties, died Thursday in a Pittsburgh hotel it was learned today. His health has been failing for the past six months.

Mr. Mudehart was the first director of the WPA coming here after the Relief Works Division was abandoned in favor of the WPA plan. He was an efficient administrator and made many friends in New Castle. From here he went to Williamsport and later was made administrative assistant to the state administrator in Harrisburg.

On October 1, 1939 he resigned his position due to ill health and spent some months in the south in an effort to recuperate. He returned in March and was engaged in the selling of contractors' equipment.

American Girl Is London War Bride

(International News Service)

VILLANOVA, Pa. March 29—Joan Beaver White, daughter of John Beaver White, well-known investment broker, has become a war bride in England where she volunteered for nursing duty, her father announced today.

The 30-year-old former Junior League member sailed abroad last November to do Red Cross work and was married March 6th to Capt. Kenneth Eccles after a six-week courtship.

"She was born in London and had an urge to get in the war," White said. "I suppose that's the adventurous part of youth. I can't blame her for wanting to help."

New Castle Coin Club Co-operates In National Observance

Observance of National Coin Week will be participated in by the New Castle Coin Club, which is a member of the American Numismatic Association, when displays will be placed in the windows of many local stores next week as part of the celebration.

The first coins struck in this country were those coined in Boston, Mass., the famous "Pine Tree" shillings. All these bear the date 1652, although they were as late as 1680. The first coins of the United States were struck at the mint in Philadelphia in 1793.

Many interesting facts about coins can be learned in visiting the New Castle Coin Club, which convenes the third Monday of each month in the Y. M. C. A., where anyone interested in coins will be welcomed, president James S. Ball states.

Revoke Permits Of Motorists Who Are Dope Addicts

Department Of Revenue Takes Away License From 220 Known Addicts Last Year

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 29.—The woman motorist who loved to crash her car head on . . .

The gunman who terrified drivers by passing on the right at 80 miles an hour . . .

The wealthy manufacturer who thrilled at night-driving without lights only to flash them on the bright beam when he neared an oncoming vehicle . . .

People of fiction?. Characters from movie thrillers? Not at all. Just some of the 220 dope addicts whose licenses to own or operate motor cars in Pennsylvania were revoked during the past eight months according to figures released today by Secretary of Revenue, William J. Hamilton, Jr.

These 220 victims of morphine, heroin, marihuana and other drugs may never again legally operate a motor car in this state. They are part of a list of 1432 dope addicts who, since June 1, have ben investigated by the Division of Narcotics of the Bureau of Highway Safety, Department of Revenue.

The other 1212 men and women possessors of the drug habit do not at present own motor cars or hold operators permits but if at some future date they attempt to obtain tags or get drivers licenses they will find themselves "black balled" in the Department's files unless they present impartial medical proof of their permanent cures.

This successful effort to keep drug addicts from our highways was reached only by close cooperation between the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, the State Department of Health, the police departments of many Pennsylvania cities and the Department of Revenue.

DECIPHERING SECRET CODES

Col. George Fabyan, the cipher expert, at one time made the statement: "I have yet to find a message in secret code that cannot be read." He said that the biliteral cipher invented some 300 years ago by Sir Francis Bacon is the most dangerous because capable of being most infinitely varied.

British Turn Seized Soviet Steamers Over To French

Soviet Protests Are Not Heeded

British Determined To Prevent Contraband Reaching Germany Via Russia

BRITAIN SEEKS TO CONCILIATE JAPAN

By RUSSELL F. ANDERSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 29—Brushing aside informal protests by Soviet Ambassador Ivan Malsky British authorities at Hong Kong today turned over to French custody two Soviet steamers which had been detained at the British far eastern contrabond control station for more than two months.

This move, announced by the British ministry of economic warfare, was regarded as a further indication of British determination to prevent further contraband shipments to Germany via the Russian port of Vladivostok—the "back door" of the Reich.

British Defiance

Its also constituted British defiance of Russian demands that the vessels be released, and lent color to recent speculation in London predicting early extension of sea warfare to the Pacific ocean.

Shortly after the ministry's announcement, a Soviet spokesman claimed that the crew of one of the Russian vessels—the Selenga—had been placed aboard a French warship under arrest.

"A French warship halted the Selenga while it was leaving Hong Kong and ordered it to proceed to an unspecified port in French Indo-China," the spokesman declared.

Ship Halted

"The Soviet captain and crew refused to submit to the instructions, whereupon the ship was halted and its crew was taken aboard the French warship under arrest."

Observers in London noted that the Russian vessels were handed over to French authorities within 24 hours of a conciliatory speech in Tokyo by Sir Robert Craigie, British ambassador to Japan, declaring that Britain and Japan were seeking the same objectives—"lasting peace and preservation of our institutions."

While there was no official comment in London, it appeared that the British government was seeking to conciliate Japan while launching an anti-German blockade in Pacific waters.

Authorities Are Working On Two Theories In Case

vances. He said brush burns on one of her legs indicated she had been dragged.

State police, meantime, were examining automobiles of students and residents in the neighborhood. They said they had checked over 900 machines without finding one that looked suspicious.

Other officers plodded up and down in the mud along the road from the college to Shiloh church, where the girl's pocketbook and other things were found, "looking for what they might find."

Rachel apparently was overtaken by her murdered a scant half block from the dormitory in which she roomed.

State police were not alone in their inquiry. Presidents of some 50 Penn State fraternities had called meetings for tonight at which they were to undertake individual "house" inquiries of their own in an effort to turn up any pertinent evidence.

Sorrowfully, Taylor described his daughter's home training and living habits.

"All her life Rachel was taught not to get into automobiles with strangers," he said. "I'm sure that she would not have entered a vehicle with anyone she didn't know.

"She was a perfect daughter and had never done anything the least bit out of the ordinary."

Seen Near Dormitory

Two men idling in a garage a bare half block from the Frances Atherton dormitory reported they saw a girl resembling Rachel pass early Thursday morning at about the time the girl debarked from a bus at the college.

The girl was stockily built as was Rachel. She was lugging two coats and a suit-case as also was Rachel. She stopped momentarily in front of the garage and switched the coats and bag from arm to arm, they said.

One of the men, Norman Crandall, a former State College restaurant employe, said he saw an automobile move down the street just after the girl had passed. He said he didn't notice whether it stopped or not.

Both men were to be shown protographs of the girl today to see if they can identify her.

Rachel was returning home from an Easter vacation at her home in Wildwood, N. J., but before she reached her dormitory, she was intercepted by a killer in an automobile, a maniac who clubbed and stabbed her to death. Because of her reserved attitude toward men, it was believed she was acquainted with the person who proffered her a ride.

Burgess Asks Aid

The 5,000 Penn State College students were thrown into high excitement by a warning from the college burgess, Wilbur F. Leitzell, that the killer may be among them.

Burgess Leitzell summoned the presidents of the 50 college fraternities into conference and appealed for their cooperation in running down the maniacal killer. He asked them to relay any information or clues they have. The fraternity presidents were asked to check on the whereabouts of all their members late Wednesday night when Rachel was killed and report any found missing.

It had been believed that after riding most of the day on the bus Rachel accepted a ride from the bus station to the dormitory when she reached State College at 1:30 a. m. Thursday. Her horribly battered body was found in front of the Lemont Consolidated school, about four miles from the college.

Two co-eds reported to police they had seen Rachel walking the three blocks towards the dormitory a short distance from the bus station. The story of the two men in the garage put her almost within the shadows of the building.

Overtaken By Assailant

In one brief interval, after passing the garage and before reaching the dormitory, she was apparently overtaken by her assailant.

It was learned that Miss Taylor was the only woman passenger on the bus from Lewistown, Pa., to State College. Other student passengers said she rode alone from Harrisburg to the college by way of Lewistown.

From Bryn Mawr, Pa., to Harrisburg, she sat beside Samuel Virgilio, a State College horticultural student. Virgilio said the girl appeared restless and unable to sleep most of the journey. She talked but little, he asserted.

Plaster casts were made of tire marks and a man's foot-print found near the body. A blood-stained handbag, a blood-stained man's handkerchief, the girl's shoes, textbooks and a pocketbook, found strewn along the highway at various points as if thrown from an automobile, were carefully examined for fingerprints.

A coroner's jury rendered a verdict of murder "by crushing of the skull with some blunt or sharp instrument by person or persons unknown."

Rachel had not been criminally assaulted, Dr. Herbert Glenn announced after an examination. The body had numerous skin punctures, cuts and bruises and the clothing was partly torn away.

Question Released Prisoner

PITTSBURGH, March 29.—Two men, one of whom was released from Rockview penitentiary just a few hours before 16-year-old Rachel Taylor was found slain near Pennsylvania State College, were picked up by Pittsburgh police today for questioning.

They were identified as Ralph Lipulle, 34, of Pittsburgh, the released prisoner, and James George, 24, also of Pittsburgh. They were taken to Central Police station after being picked up shortly after 6 o'clock this morning.

Pittsburgh police said Lipulle was released from the penitentiary, where he had been under sentence of one and a half to five years for armed robbery, about 1 o'clock Thursday morning. Police said Lipulle had a long record.

Officials here pointed out that George had no criminal record so far, but that a charge of beating a girl was pending against him.

It was said that another man, as yet unidentified, had accompanied George to Bellefonte Wednesday night.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

In the spring beware of the spring.

That is not nonsense, but excellent advice.

Clear sparkling spring water may appear inviting.

But it may be contaminated and contain disease germs.

Babbling streams invite one to drink of the clear water.

But melting snows and surface drainage has polluted them.

Nor does running water purify itself every 12 or 15 miles.

Disease organisms are quite tiny and light.

They are not likely to settle in running water.

Drink only from those springs labeled as pure drinking water.

The state health department examines and checks on springs.

Beware of the spring in the spring!

Mrs. James M. Smith, Jr., chairman of the Staff Assistance Corps, today announced that Rev. Father Joseph A. Doerr, of Pittsburgh, former pastor of St. Joseph's church, will be the first speaker in a series of talks which will be given to members of the Corps, acquainting them with the work of the Red Cross.

Insurance Men Map Advertising Drive

The New Castle Association of Insurance Agents yesterday afternoon protested recent changes in regulations of the state's insurance department.

After luncheon in The Castleton, members approved resolutions voicing their objections and considered recommendations and mailed them to their state organization for presentation.

President Loy H. Pattersen, who presided, said the association also sanctioned a new newspaper advertising campaign for 1940 and assigned its publicity committee, headed by James A. Rugh, to handle it.

Scout Troop Gets Use Of School For Future Meetings

Troop 4 Will Now Have Permanent Weekly Meeting Location

Through the efforts of the Lawrence County Boy Scout Council permission was secured from the school board for the use of a portion of the Mahoning school building by Troop 4.

In the past year, Troop 4, has grown to 45 in number and it is rather difficult to find a suitable meeting place, large enough to take care of so large a number.

By securing the school building one of the larger rooms or the gymnasium may be used by the boys for their meetings in the future. At the present time, just the troop patrols are holding regular meetings, but the troop will again be meeting in a short time, it is believed.

PAST PRESIDENTS MEET ON THURSDAY

Mrs. Hazel Grim entertained members of the Past Presidents club in the home of her mother, Mrs. William Sapper, West Clayton street, Thursday evening.

Games were played during the hours, and prize was awarded to Mrs. Frank Weisbaker.

Three special guests, Mrs. Edith Charlebois and son, Edward, of Youngstown; and Barbara Simkins of Sharon, were present.

Mrs. Sapper aided Mrs. Grim in serving a delicious luncheon. Next meeting will be held on April 25, at the home of Mrs. E. M. Johnston, West Clayton street.

TROOP 25 MEETS IN WARD CHURCH

Girl Scouts of Troop 25, held a meeting Wednesday evening, in the Mahoning Methodist church.

A short business period was held followed by a recreation session. Ping pong games were played by the girls during the hours.

Taps, sung by the Scouts, brought the meeting to a close.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

Many people pause before the store windows along North Liberty street, to inspect the many industrial displays arranged in conjunction with Pioneer Week, in the Seventh Ward.

Attractive colored posters, made by the students at the Mahoning school have been placed in the window of the Mahoning Finance and Loan Company. Other posters are seen in other stores about town.

Wabash avenue is again in bad shape. The weather of the past few weeks has caused a great many holes and ruts to form in the street surface.

1939 license plates are disappearing more rapidly than ever these days, as the deadline for the plates rapidly approaches. Sunday night will be the final time when the old plates will be legal on automobiles.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

Mrs. J. R. Daugherty, Mt. Jackson road, has returned to her home after vacationing in Florida.

Youth Conference Services Tonight

The Tanner sisters of Savannah, the Gibbons trio and Mrs. Gomer Emery will be present tonight at the Youth Conference at the Primitive Methodist church, South Mill street, at 7:30.

The youth services, which have been in progress for the past four nights, are attracting large crowds of young people each evening. The special speakers for the occasion have been Miss Edna Lewis of Seattle, Wash., and Miss Elizabeth Lewis, of New Castle. The messages that these young women have been delivering nightly have been directed mostly to the Christian youth of the city.

Again last evening, Miss Edna Lewis gave a heart-searching message on the need of consecrated youth entering into Christian service, thus spreading the Christian messages into homes where it has not been heard. Following her appeal came the challenge of Miss Elizabeth Lewis who portrayed the various young people of the Bible and what they did when they were actually put to the test. Giving a modern day example, she reviewed the life of Rev. Rees Howell, formerly of New Castle, who was led of God by faith to open the great Bible College of Swansea, Wales.

The service last night had as guest singers the young ladies chorus and the mixed quartet of the Third U. P. church. The conference will close tomorrow with two services, at 2:30 and 7:30. The Oyer Evangelistic party will be present in the evening.

Communist And Fascist Leaders Being Rounded Up

Subpoenaes Being Served In Half A Dozen Cities For Dies Committee

BY GRIFFING BANCROFT, JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A nationwide roundup of Communist and Fascist secretaries is underway by the Dies committee in a new, intensified drive against asserted subversive activities in this country, it was learned today.

In the first raid and seizure of the roundup, which will cover the whole nation, committee agents late yesterday captured records of the Communist party in Baltimore, and subpoenaed two persons before the committee this morning.

Subpoenaed were Mrs. Dorothy Blumberg and Sam Banks, said to be regional secretary of the young Commuists league.

Records seized during the raid included lists believed to include names of all party members in the Baltimore-Washington area, and indicated that there has been a recent influx of Communists into the capital.

Disclosing for the first time that investigators are ready now to start serving subpoenas in half a dozen cities, committeemen said in eacn case the secretaries would be asked to reduce membership rosters and financial statements.

If they refuse, they will face immediate contempt citations carrying possibility of one-year jail sentences, if they are convicted.

The two contempt citations already issued by the committee against James Hulse Dolsen and George Powers, Pittsburgh Communists, "are just a starter" according to present plans.

USING OLD BURLAP BAGS

Useful and decorative articles may be made of burlap and unbleached cotton grain, flour and sugar bags. To remove the printing of some bags all that is necessary is to cover the inked places with lard or soak in kerosene or a strong kerosene solution or strong soap solution over night. Sometimes a bleaching solution is necessary. After treatment, the bag should be washed in warm water.

BAKED HAM RECIPE

To bake, ham should be at room temperature. No parboiling necessary. Place in roaster, fat side up; Add 1 cup gingerale or water. Bake at 325° to 350° F., allowing 16 min. per pound. When cooked, peel off skin, score fat, dot with cloves and sprinkle with brown sugar. Return to oven (400° F.) until brown, basting occasionally. Allow 19 min. per pound for half a ham.

Sportsmen's Banquet Proves Huge Success

French And Leffler Dwell Upon Propagation And Conservation Of Game And Fish

ABOUT 1,200 AT FETE LAST NIGHT

Conservation of game and propagation of fish were the high lights of addresses made last night by Ross L. Leffler, president of the State Game commision and Charles A. French, commissioner of fisheries, respectively, at the seventeenth annual banquet of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association banquet held in the Cathedral. District Attorney John G. Lamoree was toastmaster. The banquet was attended by approximately 1,200 persons.

The banquet was one of the most successful yet held by the organization which has members in every nook and corner of the county. It was attended by young and old. Dignitaries of sportsmen's organizations from other sections in addition to officials of the city and county participated in the fete. During the evening there were addresses, a Lelenko show, distribution of awards and motion pictures of game and fish.

Lamoree Toastmaster

Banquet Chairman W. Henry Rodgers opened the fete, then introduced the president of the association, George Sillman, who in turn introduced District Attorney John G. Lamore who most ably filled the role. Being a lover of outdoor life, the barrister adeptly handled the situation as though he was drawing a bead on an eight-point buck or reeling in a black bass.

After declaring that the organization was composed of people who have a healthy feeling for God's outdoors he pointed out that the assembly was made up of young and old, both men and women and called Pennsylvania the greatest hunting ground in the United States. He then introduced game and fish organization notables and other prominent persons present.

He introduced Commissioner of fisheries, Charles A. French whose residence is Ellwood City. French received a thunderous ovation then told of how during the past 14 days he was confined to his office for 11 days and of covering 1,100 miles in the other thre days. He described the Lawrence county banquet as the biggest held in Pennsylvania.

French said that, of every dollar expended by a fisherman, the commission uses 60 cents for propagation. He stated the state has nine hatcheries and operates a fleet of 52 trucks. Weather conditions has hampered stocking of some streams. However, 800,000 trout will be placed in streams, he explained.

Stock Streams

Streams in northwestern counties already have been or will be stocked before April 15, he stated. However, in some other sections of the state, roads are yet blocked by snow and streams frozen. French explained that it may not be possible to stock such bodies of water until, possibly May.

He explained also that by using frozen salt water fish the commission had saved a big amount of money. Relative to pan fish or the kind sought by pole fishermen, especially the young 800,000 catfish and 2,000,000 bluegills and sunfish were stocked last year.

French described the operation of warden service and also spoke of fish law violations. Seven cents of each fisherman's dollar goes for administration and six cents for new construction because expansion of hatcheries must be kept up.

He praised the manner in which the local organization presents problems to the fish commission. French said that is the reason why they are promptly attended to. French predicted that the fishermen in this section would have a good season.

Leffler Speaks

The toastmaster next introduced the eldest person in the audience, Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, 85 years old. They received an ovation following which District Attorney Lamoree paid a glowing tribute when, in introducing Ross L. Leffler, he remarked "he is a man we all highly respect." The president of the game commission was given a rousing welcome.

Leffler said that he had been here several times, knew the success of the organization in arranging big banquets then launched into conservation by explaining such a program has many ramifications. He declared there is a need to conserve for the future because sometimes "we don't think what is coming next."

He admitted that being a commissioner isn't a "bed of rose." The commission he added has its woes, for instance, he declared, 'I'm not thinking of the last doe season." He then paid a neat tribute to his fellow colleague, Robert Lamberton.

Leffler said the commission makes mistakes. He told how the commission tried to raise turkeys and said it was difficult to improve on nature. He said William Fluke was doing a good job now with turkeys. Mexican quail did not fare well in this state. However, the "Bob White" does. Missouri and Kansas rabbits were bought. Only about 25 percent survived, he explained.

He declared the Jack rabbits brought into the state disappeared and the money was wasted. He explained the reason by saying the commission was trying to improve on nature. Leffler then recited how the sparrow and the starling were brought here and then told how duck and quail feeding grounds in the South are being ruined.

Leffler declared the gray fox on which there is a bounty as depredators. He next said that "it is the outdoors, not the meat that takes us out." Thirty-eight persons met death during the last hunting season. He ascribed the fatalities largely to "greed and carelessness."

Leffner then, in closing said that when the Great Call comes and one marches up to St. Peter the question that to be asked will be "not how many times did you win, nor how many times did you lose, but how did you play the game?"

Others Itroduced

During the fete those introduced by the toastmaster, Robert Lamberton, State Game commissioner; Jacob F. Rentz, manager, New Castle News; Samuel Townsend, WKST; Odd McCleary, delegate to Sportsmen's council; Ray Wallace, WKST sports announcer.

Nick Casillo, tutor, sportsman and writer; Mr. Simmons, Beaver county; Charles Ward, Pittszurgh Casting club; Jack Sines, first manager of the Jordan game farm; Clint White, fish warden; Randolph Thompson, State game commission motion picture display.

Hayes T. Englert, district game protector; Frank Coen, county game protector; Kenneth Brenneman, manager, Jordan state game farm; Harold Parker, Ellwood City Rod and Gun Club; Paxton Fike, Ellwood City; Mayor Charles B. Mayne, this city.

J. T. Meyers, Canadian sportsman; Andrew Dodds, former president Lawrence County Sportsmen's association; Ed. Fritz, Sports Editor of the New Castle News; former Sheriff Robert Whaley; former game commissioner, Jared Reid.

Blaine Letty, Mercer county; Jimmy Atkinson, noted trapshooter of Union township; Sheriff M. M. Ingham; Vic Connery, Coon Hunters association; George Keppler of Crawford county, William Jacobson, Conneaut Lake and Wesley Davies, first president of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association; Adolf Lang, local sportsman; Sam Frank, Dick Roberts and Don Mooney, this city.

The show staged by Emil Lelenko, Bert Sanford, Dy Jones and Arch Cubbison with Lelenko as "M. C." was a screaming success. The dinner, chicken being the piece de resistance was prepared and served by Chapter 440, Eastern Star with Dick Roberts as supervisor.

Awards Made

There were some beautiful displays of fishing lures and tackles and of firearms for hunting. Awards during the banquet resulted in Mrs. Janet Mirow, 1216 Delaware avenue, securing a fishing outfit and the grand award of a shotgun.

Other awards: Frank Stimple, North Beaver street; candid camera: Allen Barnett, 201 Winter avenue; fishing equipment: Kenneth Cotton, North Mercer street; Woolrich wool hunting suit; Thomas Beatrice, 421 East Lutton street; fishing equipment.

The motion pictures were game scenes in Pennsylvania provided by Randolph Thompson of the game commission and fishing scenes provided by the Canadian National railways.

Walter DeArment was in charge of the microphone announcements.

20,000 Trout Placed In County Streams

There should be a good season for trout fishermen here, April 15, according to Clint White, fish warden for Lawrence county. During the past two weeks 20,000 were placed in Lawrence county streams, he declared last night at the Sportsmen's banquet.

The size of the fish stocked was six inches to 16 inches.

The next consignment to arrive will reach Plaingrove at 11 a. m. Monday.

The fish will be placed in Taylor run. Sportsmen who desire to help stock the stream should meet White at Plaingrove.

The streams already stocked are Deer creek, Hickory creek, Big run and Little Neshannock.

MAHONING WINS GAME

The Mahoning Junior Hi-Y team defeated the Union Hi-Y team at the "Y" court recently 16 to 9. Monaco and Louers did the mast of the scoring.

Boosters-Butler To Play Sunday

The New Castle Boosters will play the Butler Cubs Sunday at the Arena in the final game of the 1940 season. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

The Butler team is made up of former Butler High and college stars and are rated one of the strongest teams in the district. In the Butler lineup will be such well known stars as Larry Paffrath, ex-Pitt star, who is averaging 21 points per game this year, Rip Collins also an ex-Pitt star, Frannie Webster of Slippery Rock. Also Andrews of this year's Butler High team, Denny, Hulton, Pataky and Shuber.

In a game earlier in the year at Butler the Cubs hung a defeat on the Boosters. Paffrath had 25 of the Butler points. The locals hope to even up the score here Sunday.

Ben Hogan Wins Golf Tournament

(International News Service)

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 29.—Ben Hogan, of White Plains, N. Y., today took his place among the all-time greats of golf as he pocketed the $1,200 first prize money in the $5,000 Greensboro open tournament.

Hogan captured the tourney yesterday by shooting a 5-below par 66 on the morning round, and a 67 on the afternoon round, to give him a 72-hole score of 270—14 strokes below par. This was one stroke better than the record set in 1938 by Sam Snead of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa.

Craig Wood, Mamroneck, N. Y., collected the $750 second money with a score of 279. Ralph Guldahl, Johnny Revolta, Byron Nelson and Paul Runyan got $412 apiece in a four-way tie for third place.

Sports World Ramblings

Local tales in tidbits—Despite the fact that his name graces the category of "pint-sized" athletes, Filbert Nocera is easily one of the most versatile lads to receive a sheepskin at New Castle high. He participates in various sports throughout the year. And, he performs with better than average success.

The shifty south sider plays football, basketball, baseball, golf, softball, boxes a little, plays tennis and handball. At present, he is appearing in the home exhibition being staged by the varsity gym team of Slippery Rock college. Nocera presents entertaining specialties on the mat. His favorite sport—football.

If present plans materialize, the old P. & L. E. property, along Lafayette street, Mahoningtown, may be coverted into a new baseball field. Once a popular field, the large piece of terra firma was abandoned a number of years ago. Some of the more energetic Seventh Warders hope to construct one of the best playing fields in the county. This, of course, won't be extremely difficult, considering the number and types of sandlots handy.

The new field, if constructed, will mean that the diamond which has been in use, near the Pennsylvania railroad shops, will be discarded. Building a new sandlot helps the sport considerably. But, erecting a new diamond and forsaking another doesn't add to the number of fields available. Local diamond addicts need additional fields.

With King Winter showing signs of relenting, anyday now William "Bill" Klee, the high school track team conditioner, will send the "Hurricane" turfmen through their initial paces in preparation for the coming cinder-path season. The first meet, probably at Taggart Stadium, will be held on Thursday, April 25.

Diamond sidelights—The Dodgers are setting a dizzy pace. In fact, they're making the Yanks look sick at the plate. In eight games, the Daffs poled out 22 homers. Don't let that excite you. The fences are short at Clearwater, Fla., and the breeze helps along a lot. . . . What's happening to the Yanks? In Haines City, Fla., only 175 fans watched the Yanks play Kansas City, Wednesday. The number represents the smallest gallery to ever watch the champs play anywhere.

"Whizz" Gee, the tallest man in baseball, came up to the Pirates with an amazing record compiled in the International circuit. The string bean twirler last year missed pitching a perfect game on three different occasions, turning in a one-hitter and two two-hit jobs. As you probably know, he won 20 games for Syracuse. . . . Larry MacPhail drew the following New York license plate; L. M.-7. Could that indicate the position the Dodgers may grace before it's all over?

Things we never knew 'bout sports 'till now—That only 13 minutes of actual football playing were crammed into last season's games, according to Hugh Ray, of the National Football league. The rest of the time went for the huddle, etc. . . . That Harold Osborn, assistant track coach at Illinois and once holder of the world high jump record, can still clear 6 feet. He is 40 years old.

New Castle High Rifle Club Wins

The New Castle Senior High rifle team defeated the Sons of American Legion Rifle club of Ellwood City yesterday at the local high school range 930 to 913. The next match for the locals will be sometime in April and will be a postal shoot with Waynesburg High.

The results yesterday—New Castle High—Norris 190, Fisher 188, Williams 188, Rumbaugh 183, Gardner 181. Totals 930. Other scores—McConnell 150, Walls 165, Dripps 169, Sowash 180, Ward 180, Lapinsky 180.

Ellwood—Clyde Greenwood 193, Reinheimer 183, Kaluger 180, Chas. Greenwood 180, Jubach 177. Other scores— Mackasek 172, Kreigisch, 124, McElwain 101, Duffy 172, Bower 176, Dunning 175, Ross 157, Plank 170.

TREES OF NAILS

Louis-Paychek Fight Tonight, Title At Stake

Odds Favor Joe Louis To Defeat Paychek, Look For Early Knockout

FINNISH RELIEF FUND TO BENEFIT

BY LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 29.—Breaking all records, including his own, for heavyweight championship defenses, Joe Louis will risk his crown for the 10th time tonight, with the odds ranging upward all the way to 10 to 1 that he will defeat Johnny Paycheck, of Des Moines, and thus survive further to stretch his string. Betting was negligible on what appeared to be one of the least violent engagements ever arranged for the tawn-pelted title-holder.

Most of the wagering, in fact, had to do with how many rounds Paychek will remain in the ring, the price being around 5 to 1 that he will have changed his venue before the 15 rounds have run their course.

For Finnish Relief

Two factors entered into the assumption of a sudden termination of the festivities, one being, of course, that Paychek apparently can't fight much, or, anyhow, not well enough for the company he travels in tonight. The other thing is that Louis is always a rough and tough party bouncing back from the humiliation of a poor showing such as he made last month against Arturo Godoy.

At approximately 10 o'clock tonight the answer will begin to unfold, when Louis, trained to a fine 202 pounds begins to crack down before an estimated crowd of 15,000 at Madison Square Garden.

Receipts are expected to total from $85,000 upwards, according to Promoter Mike Jacobs, who is giving 10 per cent to the Finnish relief fund. From his 40 per cent Louis will kick back 7 1-2 per cent and from his 20, Paychek will give 2 1-2. Thus it seems likely that the Finns will do considerably better financially than Paychek will artistically.

Conemaugh Team Means Business

Coach Of Team In State Finals Says "We're Not In Philadelphia To See Sights"

PHILADELPHIA, March 29—Coach Othmar Wuenschel, former Penn State athlete, today was to send his Conemaugh court five thru a short drill in preparation for its battle with Lebanon high in finals of the Pennsylvania interscholastic athletic association tourney at the Palestra tomorrow night.

Wuenschel, whose Cambria county team won the western district title, would comment merely: "We didn't come here just to see the sights." The Conemaugh passers have a record of 23 vicitories in 25 games and beat out Farrell in the playoffs.

In winning the eastern crown, Bernie Thrush's Lebanon quintet trounced previously undefeated Luzerne.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

A dandy crowd attended the 17th Annual Sportsmen's Banquet last night . . . and we think that each and everyone present had a good time . . . some were lucky and some were almost lucky, but now everyone is waiting until next year when it comes around time to gather around the board again . . . one more word on this party and that concerns Amil Lelenko . . . of all this chap's goings-on, the one about the lady taking a bath is his best bet.

The street department are getting ready to fix up the holes in various streets that have been made by old man winter . . . Now maybe this is a little bit exaggerated but it gets to the point . . . while travelling along Neshannock avenue the other day the car that we were following suddenly disappeared . . . upon investigating we found that it had dropped out of sight in one of the many holes that clutter up the street. Soon we hope that all this will be eliminated.

Ordinance Levying Tax Rate Adopted

Budget Based On 7½, Mills Decrease Of 1½ Mills, Is Formally Adopted

ELLWOOD CITY, March 29.—An ordinance setting the 1940 tax rate at 7½ mills was formally passed on first and final reading last evening by members of the Ellwood Council at a special meeting held in the city building. The millage was divided at 2½ mills for general purposes and 5 mills for debt service. The tax levy is a decrease of one and one-half mills over the 9 mill rate of 1939, in which year the millage was also decreased.

The budget was adopted by unanimous vote. In answering a question concerning street improvements during the year, Boro Manager Lowell W. Monroe, stated that only maintenance was provided in the budget. He stated that a number of streets will be improved through W.P.A. projects with the abutting property assessments to be one hundred percent.

Instead of levying a tax for library maintenance, it was decided to definitely make an annual appropriation, which would give the library board an opportunity to plan their budget. A. J. Howell, council member and also chairman of the library finance committee, made a plea for library support and stated that $11,500 is needed annually to maintain the library. This year council appropriated $7,000 to the library, while, it was said, $2,000 would be given by the school board. The balance this year will be made up from money already in the boro library fund from last year's taxes.

A motion that $80,840 be transferred from the electric to the general fund was passed.

Bids from seven companies for an automobile for the engineering department were read and referred to the finance, and street committees and boro manager with power to act.

Next Thursday night, a regular meeting of council will take place at which time a police chief and members of the police department will be elected. A free garbage collection ordinance will also be presented at this meeting by health chairman, A. J. Howell.
